J.D.C. Spent Over $272,000,000 Since V-E Day To Rebuild Life For Survivors Of Hitler Era

Although the Joint Distribution Committee ended its relief and assistance activities in seven countries in 1949, the agency aided more than 600,000 Jews overseas last year and estimates that 500,000 in distressed areas still require its help, according to the 1949 JDC annual report. The progress achieved in restoring Jews abroad and helping them to emigrate made it possible for JDC, which receives its principal funds from the United Jewish Appeal, to withdraw voluntarily from Bulgaria, Cyprus, Luxembourg and Yugoslavia. Also during the year the agency terminated programs in Rumania, Poland and Czechoslovakia at the order of those governments.

Entitled "The Year of Deliverance," the report discloses that in 1949 the JDC appropriated $59,745,000 for a three-fold program of relief, reconstruction and resettlement for Jews in 26 countries in Europe, North Africa and the Orient. Accounts of the agency's work are given by Edward M. M. Warburg, chairman; Moses A. Leavitt, executive vice-chairman; and Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, director-general of overseas operations.

In the report's opening section, Mr. Warburg states that the organization aided a record 240,000 Jews of Europe and other areas to reach new homes, principally in Israel. Nearly 300,000 persons received relief aid monthly, 40,000 were aided through the economic reconstruction program, and many thousands benefitted through other help.

In addition to the $10,000 Jews aided [illegible] in Israel, JDC in co[illegible] other bodies, helped [illegible] to reach the [illegible] to go to [illegible] the Displaced Persons of Germany, Austria and Italy, three-fourths of them for Israel. More than 68,000 Jews left Eastern Europe for Israel.

The report notes that as a result of JDC's emigration work, "the DP era was all but ended," and almost the entire Jewish population of Bulgaria, 49,000 on V-E Day, has been removed to Israel. The most dramatic emigration operation, however, was JDC's "Operation Magic Carpet," by which 40,000 Yemenite Jews in 1949 were flown 1,600 miles from Aden on the Arabian Sea to the Holy Land. The air evacuation of Yemenites is continuing.

Moses A. Leavitt comments that as a result of its emigration program and its continued progress in improving the lot of settled Jewish populations, the agency was able to reduce its European activities and personnel considerably. However, while European needs lessened, "this decrease was offset by the rising needs of Jews living harsh and bitter lives in the disease-ridden slums of Moslem-Arab lands." The needs of Jewish children in Arab countries, harboring 800,000 Jews, are cited by Mr. Leavitt as "overwhelming". "In these areas," he states, "the JDC brought expanded help and a chance for a decent future to tens of thousands of boys and girls."

Mr. Leavitt writes that "JDC provided lunches for 25,000 undernourished North African children attending schools." He adds: "Despite the fact that JDC food in too many instances amounted to only one good meal a day, nevertheless in an area in which the child mortality rate is among the highest in the world, this one daily meal became an outstanding barrier to disease and malnutrition which take a terrible toll of Jewish life."

Meanwhile, JDC-supported medical services for Jewish children and adults were actively expanded during the year in Morocco, Tunisia, Tripolitania, and other Arab countries, Mr. Leavitt reports. By the year's end, 54 Jewish health institutions were caring for a monthly average of 41,000 children and 5,000 adults, predominantly [illegible] and combatting tuberculosis, trachoma, favus and other widely prevalent diseases.

Writing on the work which still remains to end Jewish suffering overseas, Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz states that "despite the outstanding progress of 1949, a minimum of 500,000 men, women, and children in European and Moslem lands look to JDC for help, to work, to emigrate, and in thousands of Einstein To Give Manuscript To Hebrew U.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of Israel, predicted that existing international tensions in the Middle East would be replaced by Arab-Jewish amity from the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean "much sooner than the enemies of peace think." He emphasized that his belief concerning growing co-operation and harmony was not premature.

President Weizmann's views were made known in a message to the first national conference, at Princeton, N. J., of the recently combined American committee for three leading Israeli institutions of higher learning, the Hebrew University, Weizmann Institute of Science and the Technion, the last an institute of technology in Haifa, says the New York Herald Tribune.

It was announced that Dr. Albert Einstein, president of the combined American committee, who attended the dinner, would give to the Hebrew University, as soon as he revises it, the original manuscript of his newest generalized theory of gravitation, made public last December.

In a message read at a directors meeting before he spoke at the dinner, Dr. Einstein urged support for the three organizations, known as U.I.T. He expressed hope that widespread recognition would develop; that "providing a solid financial foundation for this central organ of our intellectual aspirations is an important and noble task for the entire Jewish people, equally with the care for their material well-being."

In addition to being the first national conference of the three organizations, the meeting marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Hebrew University. Governors of thirty-six states sent messages of congratulations, including Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, who greeted the university as "a center of culture, as well as the guardian of the finest Hebrew traditions."

President Weizmann, recalling the founding of the Hebrew University twenty-five years ago, noted that at that time also steps were started toward Arab-Jewish friendship.

In his message Dr. Weizmann said:

"In the very year that we laid the foundation of the Hebrew University, we also laid the foundation for the house not yet built, Jewish-Arab friendship. The reassurances of good will exchanged with King Feisal at that time may not have been in vain, and perhaps sooner than the enemies of peace think the day may come when the two nations will, to their mutual benefit, contribute to the establishment of a belt of flourishing countries stretching from the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean, where the people of Israel and of the Arab countries will co-operate in harmony.

"Surely this is not narrow chauvinism, but a conception worthy of the sympathies and enthusiasm of the best of our youth. Nor do I think this thought premature or irrelevant. In fact, I am confident that beyond the ephemeral noise of war propaganda and the clamor for revenge in our neighbor's camp, reason will prevail. May then from the unique city of Jerusalem and Mount Scopus come forth a message of peace and constructive work for the benefit of our people and its neighbors."

Eliahu Elath, Israeli Ambassador to the United States, speaking along the same lines as President Weizmann, asserted that Arabs and Jews can get along well together, and he said the Arab states would profit from the scientific and technical progress which the Jews were introducing into the Middle East.

BNAI BRITH ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE CANCELS U.S. AIDE'S SPEECH AS HELPING VICIOUS ELEMENTS IN GERMANY

The Anti-Defamation League of Bnai Brith announced that it had cancelled an address on "The Reorientation of Germany" by Benjamin J. Buttenwieser, Assistant United States High Commissioner for Germany, on the ground of its "general tenor."

The address was scheduled for delivery at a banquet closing the League's three-day annual meeting, in Chicago, Ill., which was attended by 1,000 persons from all parts of the U.S. Mr. Buttenwieser had flown from Germany to deliver this and one other major address.

Said the League's announcement, according to the New York Times, "The general tenor of the speech, whose keynote that Nazism in Germany . . . has been destroyed, never to rise again is an apologia for the limited job that has been done to denazify Germany; and gives aid and encouragement to those vicious elements in the 'new German nationalism' which Mr. Buttenwieser himself admits are re-emerging today."

Mr. Buttenwieser, who was in Chicago but did not attend the banquet, authorized publication of the text of his speech and made a brief statement. He said the speech had been "cleared" in Frankfort, where the officers of the High Commissioner are located, thus giving it an official cast.

Mr. Buttenwieser, who resigned as a partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., to accept the post in Germany, is a former president of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York and is a trustee of the American Jewish Committee, of the Baron de Hirsh Fund, of the National Urban League, of the 110th Street Community Center and of the Lenox Hill Hospital. He also has been a trustee of the National Council of the Jewish Welfare Board.

He was born in New York, October 22, 1900, and is a graduate of Columbia University. He joined Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in 1918 and became a partner in 1932. His wife, Mrs. Helen L. Buttenwieser, is a niece of Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat-Liberal of New York. She is a lawyer and her legal work has involved the field of charity and philanthropy in addition to business and corporation law.

Mr. Buttenwieser's address acknowledged that "some fragments of Nazism" still survived, confirmed a rebirth of nationalism in Germany and stated that former Nazis occupied many important public and private positions. But it held that on balance "a sincere, honest and, so far as possible, effective job" had been done in punishing the guilty, and it made a distinction between "nationalism which, in its proper sense, represented pride in one's country" and "national socialism with all its lethal doctrines."

On the thesis that "only the Germans can reorient themselves," the address advocated a spirit of forgiveness, as spoken by Christ on the cross, to make effective our assistance to "Germans of liberal mind, progressive energies and public spirit" in achieving a democratic reorientation of the population from within.

The banquet was the occasion for the League's presentation to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath of its "America's Democratic Legacy Award" in recognition of his "outstanding championship of full civil rights for all groups."

Justice Meier Steinbrink, of the New York Supreme Court, national chairman of the League, made the presentation. Mr. McGrath's presence caused the banquet to be picketed by 200 persons carrying signs calling for the release of Eugene Dennis, secretary of the Communist party, who is serving a year in jail for contempt of Congress.

The League statement on the cancellation of the Buttenwieser speech stated that an advance copy of the address had been received on Friday and that cancellation had been voted by the League's thirty-five member national commission.

The statement declared the League's "wholehearted support" of Mr. Buttenwieser's thesis that we "must develop a democratic anti-totalitarian Germany that will cooperate in maintaining peace and will be accepted back into, rather than remain an outcast from, the family of nations of the West."

But the opinion of the League's officers was given — "an opinion based upon continued fact-gathering and study of Western Germany" — that "the speech revealed content and proposals which can only be interpreted to justify the readmission of former Nazis to positions of importance in the economic, political, social and educational life in Germany."

"It would be a stultification of the efforts to strengthen those democratic elements within Germany — now more than ever in need of American support — who alone can make Germany an effective

Opposes Idea Of Single Spokesman For Jewry

Jacob Blaustein, president of the American Jewish Committee, asserted that the aid American Jews give to Israel for its program of adjusting the record influx of immigrants "to a democratic and constructive way of life" is entirely consistent "with the soundness of the attitudes of American Jews toward their future as Americans and Jews."

Addressing 150 Jewish leaders in New York, Mr. Blaustein emphasized that such aid given to Israel for American Jews "should not and must not be confused with world Jewish nationalism." He stressed that his organization "is unalterably opposed to any concept of world Jewish nationalism," maintaining further that "there is no question that there can be no single spokesman for world Jewry, no matter who."

"We firmly adhere to the basic democratic tenet," he added, "that Jews, in whatever country they may live, should possess and exercise the full right and duties of citizenship and should have full freedom for religious and cultural development as integral parts of their respective countries."

Mr. Blaustein pledged the efforts of his organization "to work with men of goodwill to expand American democracy and to make the actual facts of American life more closely resemble the ideals." At the same time, he declared the committee would cooperate in extending aid to Jewish communities overseas in their effort to rebuild "their institutions and to integrate themselves in the lands of their choice or birth."

In outlining the confusion which exists today on the relationship between American Jews to Israel as the result of "almost a generation of emergency and crisis," Mr. Blaustein declared "it is the task of true communal leadership to help dispel confusion, and to exercise a high measure of responsibility in the discussion of the issues."

"Education," he concluded, "in all its manifold aspects, is the only positive and effective method of promoting sound thinking, of nullifying wrong ideas and of clearing away confusion. In this educational effort, we shall work together with the vast numbers who think as we do. Time itself will be a great ally in our objective."

Irving M. Engel, chairman of the executive committee and of the Committee on Immigration, asserted that the Kilgore-Ferguson Bill on displaced persons' immigration, recently passed by the U.S. Senate, would not only afford relief to many victims of war and oppression still confined in camps overseas, but would also remove from the statute books the "un-American provisions contained in the Revercomb Bill of 1948."

Montreal Jewish Community Dedicates World's Largest "Y"

The necessity of providing training programs and facilities for youth which will develop a well-rounded culture was stressed at dedication ceremonies of the new $1,450,000 Y.M.-Y.W.H.A. building at St. Catherine Road and Westbury Avenue, Montreal.

President of the Y.M.H.A., J. H. Blumenstein told the large gathering that "we must continue to channelize the natural exuberance of youth into properly-supervised and guided activities which will not only provide opportunity for healthy release of physical energy, but will also serve in the development of character and in the recognition of disciplined co-operation."

"We must direct youth's yearning for learning into constructive, practical, cultural endeavors," he added, "which will not only give the individual a sense of personal achievement and security, but will also leave him with a lasting sense of group responsibility and of his duties as a citizen."

The local association now has nearly 16,000 members, Mr. Blumenstein said, and is believed to be the largest Y.M.-Y.W. association in the world.

Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University said: "We who are gathered here today cannot dedicate this building. It is already dedicated by the generosity of those who gave eagerly in order that it might be constructed. It is already dedicated by the sweat and tears of those who labored for more than 40 years in order to create and develop the Y.M.H.A. It is already dedicated by the gallantry and sacrifice of those young men from the Jewish community who went out to the battlefields of two world wars and came not back. These halls, constructed yesterday, are already peopled in your thoughts by the memory of those who created out of their dreams this tangible reality of wood and stone.

"We cannot dedicate this building," Dr. James said, "but we can dedicate ourselves to the task of carrying on the work of those to whom it stands a living monument."

"The great prophets of Israel, who fertilized the soil from which both Christianity and Islam have grown, preached social reform with all the fervor of Divine inspiration. The moral reform of the individual was the first step toward social reform. 'He has told thee, O Man, what is good and what the Lord doth require of thee, only to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.'

"Is it not to that ideal, as well as athletic prowess, that we dedicate ourselves today? Is it not our hope that the facilities of this building will encourage young men and women to develop their whole lives and characters, so that physical fitness, culture and religion may be blended in a rich personality?"

The impressive ceremonies, attended by 700 friends and supporters of the association, as well as by the officers, trustees and governors, began early in the morning when memorial services were held at the graves of Jacob Goldstein and Louis Rubenstein, both of whom were presidents of the association; Sir Mortimer B. Davis, donor of the Memorial Y building; and Lazarus Rubenstein.

H. S. Weiser, chairman of the dedication committee, presided at the laying of the cornerstone by Sol. Kallert, honorary president, who was presented with a silver trowel by Moe Levitt, chairman of the building committee. Previously, a metal box was placed in the cornerstone containing records of 1950, the newly-minted Canadian coins, copies of daily newspapers and other documents being deposited by Mrs. Charles Brownstein and J. Caplan, honorary secretaries.

Symbolising the opening of the $1,500,000 building, Mrs. Samuel Bronfman, O.B.E., an honorary president, cut a blue and white ribbon with silver shears, and J. H. Blumenstein and Mrs. Victor Michaels, presidents, opened the doors with gold keys, presented them by Mrs. Philip Levy.

Those who took part in the morning events also included Mrs. Henry Baron, honorary treasurer of the Y.W.H.A., and Mrs. Barnett Weinstein and Joe Rubin, vice-presidents.

The invocation at the afternoon dedication was said by Rabbi Dr. Solomon Frank, who later pronounced the benediction.

Greetings were extended by Mayor Houde who recalled he was present in 1929 as mayor when the Mount Royal Avenue building was opened; also by S. L. Mendelsohn, K.C., chairman of the National Council of Y.M.-Y.W.H.A.'s; by J. B. Beaton, general secretary of the metropolitan area Y.M.C.A.; and by Miss Elizabeth Fisher, president of the Y.W.C.A.

The official handing over of the building to the association was performed by Mr. Levitt to Harry Bronfman, chairman of the board of trustees, the former being presented with a gold key by Zave Levinson, M.B.E., while Mrs. Samuel Bronfman presented a similar token to Oscar Faerman, chairman of the furnishings and equipment committee. Samuel Bronfman, on behalf of the Canadian Jewish Congress, and Irving Edison, of St. Louis, Missouri, on behalf of the National Welfare Board of the United States, congratulated the Montreal community on its forward step.

Dr. James was introduced by H. E. Herschorn, O.B.E., an honorary president.

who was to have spoken at the meeting, was detained in Washington. Other speakers included Samuel Hausman, executive president of the U. J. T.; Meyer W. ive ally of the West," the League contended.

To permit the speech as scheduled might be construed as an endorsement, it asserted.

Mr. Buttenwieser released a message he said he had received signed by Justice Steinbrink. It read: "We believed wholeheartedly in the denazification of Germany and its democratization. We are opposed to nazism, faciam and communism. We believe in free speech, but, having read the advance copy of your address, we cannot lend our platform to its delivery." Mr. Buttenwieser, a former partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York bankers, was appointed to the post in Germany in September by United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy. He made these observations in his speech, says the New York Times:

"Of course, there are former Nazis in many public positions. Many are school teachers, mail carriers, policemen. Some occupy higher positions. Many business men, holding important posts, were former members of the Nazi party.

"Let us keep in mind, however, that though these people were certainly not heroes, not all of them were devils. The time has come to permit them to show that they have learned a lesson.

"It is neither possible nor desirable to try to keep 7,000,000 former party members — and, with their dependents, probably 25,000,000 people—outside the community or outcasts from it. . . .

"It is a fundamental concept that, once the guilty have served whatever sentence has been meted out to them by duly constituted authority, justice and ethics require that the penitent be received back into the fold of society and be permitted to function as an accepted member of the community.

"Predicated on this concept, I submit that it is proper to have former Nazis, who have been tried and either acquitted or found guilty and served their sentences, function wherever their skills and ability profit."

The Times reports that he said that there were "relatively isolated instances", of Nazi violators of varying degree who have gone unpunished or punished with far less severity than their misdeeds warranted."

He asserted that, "save for some fragments," Nazism had been destroyed in Germany, "never to rise again." He proceeded:

"The German people, who are admittedly intelligent, if not always sympathetic, will not again adopt an ideology or political pattern which caused them such costly defeat, privation and long-range deprivation. No people would re-establish a losing system, least of all pragmatists like the Germans."

On the rebirth of nationalism in Germany he stated:

"Unfortunately, this rebirth has been accompanied by the re-emergence of some dangerous elements. Fortunately, however, the bulk of the German people and their leaders are alert and opposed to aggressive nationalism.

"If there were no rebirth of pride in Germany it would indeed mark a spirit of hopeless futility hardly suitable to the development of any democratic ideas or ideals."

J. D. C. HELPS INFIRM DP TO ISRAEL

Thirty infirm Jewish displaced persons, whose ages range from 28 to 85, left Sonnenhof Hospital at Bad Worishofen, Germany, on a voyage to Israel. The group, seven of them on stretchers, were the first of 65,000 ailing Jews who had been turned down by Israel until arrangements could be taken for their care when they got there. A program of financial aid organized by the American Joint Distribution Committee, the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Government of Israel has finally made it possible to arrange the necessary help on the voyage and upon arrival.

Samuel L. Haber, A. J. D. C. director in Germany, explained that most of these cases and their families would be settled in Israel by the end of the year. "Until today no country has been able to accept them," he said. "This mercy train marks the beginning of the end of the Jewish D.P. problem."

The human body needs healthful stimulation and for mild exercise you can't beat walking. Walking moderate distances between home and work, or school, is stimulating.

MARRIAGES

HERMAN-WILSON

The marriage of Celia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Wilson, of Pratt Avenue, Montreal, and of Bathurst, N.B., to Michael Herman, son of Mrs. B. Herman, Park Avenue, and the late Israel Herman, took place on March 12, at six o'clock, in Adath Israel Synagogue. Rabbi Charles Bender, Cantor E. Goldberger, and Rabbi M. Mandelcorn officiated. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a princess gown of white Chantilly lace, the long sleeves ending in points over the hands, and the full skirt falling into a train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was caught by a tiara of satin, and she carried a bible with orchids and freesia. Mrs. Nathan Lecker, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a dress of flamingo-red chiffon, with tiara of white freesia, and carried a cascade bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. The bridesmaids were: Misses Natalie and Betty Rae Koven, cousin of the bride, dressed in pink and blue taffeta respectively; and Barbara Isaacson and Isa Hodes, cousins of the bride, were flower girls, dressed in blue and pink taffeta, respectively. The bridesmaids and flower girls carried nosegays of spring flowers. Elliott Hodes, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were: Nathan Lecker and David Campbell, cousins of the bride; Hyman Margolis, Gregory Charlap, Max Cohlenz; Irving Koven, cousin of the bride, of Grand Falls, N. B.; Harry Goldberg, uncle of the bride, of New York; and Harry Pert. The chapel was decorated with standards of white carnations, tulips, snapdragons, and palms. A dinner and reception followed the ceremony, pink carnations and white and yellow snapdragons forming the decoration, while centrepieces of red roses adorned the tables. Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bride, received, in a gown of silver-blue crepe, with beaded bodice, matching hat, and shoulder corsage of orchids; with Mrs. Herman, mother of the groom, in a gown of royal-blue crepe, with headdress to match, and a shoulder corsage of Tea roses. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Herman left on a motor trip to Miami, Florida, the bride travelling in a grey tailored suit, with black accessories. They are residing on 880 Pratt Avenue. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Goldberg, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Leah Schwartz, great-aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Hodes and daughter, Isa, brother-in-law and sister of the groom; Mrs. F. W.J.C. PROTESTS NAZI "Ad" IN BUENOS AIRES PAPER

The World Jewish Congress made public a communication to the Argentine Government expressing alarm over the social climate which would seem to exist in Argentina when a former Nazi S.S. officer can openly boast of his past in a situations wanted advertisement appearing in a Buenos Aires paper. In a letter to Dr. Jeronimo Remorino, Argentine Ambassador at Washington, Dr. Robert S. Marcus, political director of the Congress, requested the Ambassador to bring the newspaper advertisement to the attention of his government. The advertisement in question appeared in the Buenos Aires Herald of Friday, April 14, and read as follows:

"Employment of confidence in Argentina or other country wanted. German. Ex-officer of S.S. Standard A.H. G.A.F., this office. 1671d16."

Pointing out that the German seeking employment "stresses, as his only qualification, the fact that he had served as an officer of the notorious 'Adolf Hitler Standard' unit of the S.S.," the letter adds: "It is respectfully submitted that a social climate which permits the development of such arrogance on the part of a Nazi in Argentina is not conducive to the attainment of those aims to which it subscribed when it joined in the war against the Axis and became a member of the U.N."

COCONUT BARS

one and one-half cups sifted pastry flour
one-half teaspoon baking powder
one-quarter teaspoon salt
one-half cup shortening
one egg
one-third cup granulated sugar

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Grease a nine-inch cake tin. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt, add sugar, and work in shortening with a pastry cutter or tips of fingers until mixture is like cornmeal. Beat eggs slightly and stir into flour and shortening; spread evenly in cake-tin, and bake in hot oven for ten minutes.

Topping

two eggs
one and one-half cups brown sugar
one-half teaspoon vanilla
one cup shredded coconut three tablespoons pastry flour
one-quarter teaspoon salt
one teaspoon baking powder
jam

Beat the two eggs well, whites and yolks separately, then mix together. Add brown sugar and flavouring, mixing thoroughly. Stir in sifted flour and baking powder, and add shredded coconut. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees. Remove slightly browned pastry from oven and spread thin covering of jam over it (about four tablespoons). Pour coconut mixture carefully over all. Replace in oven until set, about twenty to twenty-five minutes. Remove from heat and cut into bars when cool.

one cup sugar
two eggs
one-half cup sifted all-purpose flour
one-half teaspoon salt

Melt the shortening, add sugar and eggs; mix thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, and add this to first mixture; then add nuts and vanilla. Using an eight-by-eight-inch cake pan, which has been rubbed with shortening, spread the chocolate mixture evenly; then spread the remaining dough over this. ASKS AFGHANISTAN TO LET JEWS OUT

Charging that the Jewish community of Afghanistan is becoming impoverished and faces destruction, the World Jewish Congress has called upon that government to end its ban against Jewish emigration. In a letter to the Afghanistan Ambassador to the U.S., Dr. Robert S. Marcus, WJC Political Director, requested that the Ambassador bring "to the notice of your government our respectful request that it abolish its prohibition against Jewish emigration from your country and that it grant the right to those desirous of leaving to take their meager possessions with them. To continue the ban on freedom of movement must mean the destruction of an ancient and honorable Jewish community."

"The full implication of this ban," the letter points out, "is clearly seen when we note that the financial position of the Jewish community has steadily deteriorated for some time, that the majority of the Jews today are almost impoverished, that they are in a continuous state of tension and great uncertainty and that their economic status is worsening daily." "There are over 5,000 Jews in Afghanistan, most of them Afghan citizens," Dr. Marcus said. "They are a deeply religious community and their traditions have been associated with the land of Palestine, which explains why most of the members of the Jewish community of Afghanistan desire to emigrate to the land of Israel, now governed by the State of Israel."

The WJC communication observed that only in isolated instances have Afghanistan Jews been permitted to leave Afghanistan.

DECIPHERS FIRST ELEPHANTINE PAPYRI EVER FOUND

Professor Emil G. Kraeling, of New York, Biblical scholar and Orientalist, has been at work on deciphering a great collection of Fifth Century B.C. documents from Egypt and completed his preliminary work in translating and interpreting the ancient documents. This project began last June in the laboratory of the Brooklyn Museum which had received the papyri at the bequest of Miss Theodora Wilbour, of New York. Her father, Charles Edwin Wilbour, American Egyptologist, had acquired them in 1893, but their existence was unknown until the trunk that contained them was opened at the Brooklyn Museum.

They were thereupon recognized as having been written in Aramaic and Professor Kraeling discerned that they came from the same Jewish colony in the extreme south of Egypt from which other papyri were brought to light in 1901 and 1906-8. It now appears that the Wilbour papyri are the first find of Elephantine papyri ever made. The documents are written in the language found in the Biblical books of Ezra and Daniel. Although many of the texts are complete and exactly dated, some have had to be restored from numerous fragments. They shed new light on the history of the times and on the life of Jews and Aramaeans in this military outpost on the border of Egypt and Ethiopia.

Professor Kraeling, who is now engaged in research and literary work, was for many years visiting associate professor of Semitic Languages and Head of the Department at Columbia University in 1945-6. Previously, he was assistant professor of Old Testament at Union Theological Seminary.

SHOVUOS, THE FEAST OF WEEKS

The Commission On Information About Judaism of the Union Of American Hebrew Congregations and the Central Conference of American Rabbis says: Shevuos, or the Feast of Weeks, is one of the most beautiful and spiritual festivals in the Jewish religious calendar. The holy day begins at sundown, Sunday, May 21 and concludes at sundown Monday, May 22. Orthodox and Conservative Jews observe two days, their observance ending at sundown, Tuesday, May 23. The Hebrew date is the 6th of Sivon 5710.

Historically, this day commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai, and the establishment of the covenant between God and Israel. It is symbolic of the spiritual and cultural treasures of Judaism. It confirms the Jewish people in their faith. It is named the Feast of Weeks because it completes seven weeks from the day when the new barley was taken to the Ancient Temple in Jerusalem. On the fiftieth day the early wheat harvest is celebrated. The authority for this holy day is found in the Bible, The Book of Ruth is read on this festival.

Reform and Conservative temples have beautiful confirmation services for the children who have completed their formal religious school education. The synagogues are decorated with flowers and plants, and in magnificent rituals the young people acknowledge their debt to their loved ones and pledge themselves to a life of service to God and humanity.

In our day, this timeless festival speaks of the dignity and integrity of the individual. Man is pictured as being but little lower than the angels and crowned with glory and honor. The holy day demands man's adherence to the moral and ethical laws and proclaims that only by practicing complete honesty and justice can mankind enjoy harmony, security and peace.

The Ten Immortal Words

The glorious feast of Shavuoth commences this Sunday eve. Throughout the world, in Liberal Jewish synagogues, boys and girls pledge themselves on this festival to a life of service to God and humanity by affirming their loyalty to the code of Sinai. For, in accordance with Jewish tradition, it was on Shavuoth that the "Asereth Ha-dibros", "The Decalogue", was revealed through Moses to the Jewish people.

The past Sabbath in synagogues throughout the world the traditional Scripture lesson dealt with the "Asereth Ha-dibros", "The Decalogue". No religious document has exercised a greater influence on moral and social life than the Ten Commandments. In Judaism "the moral code" has ever been recognized as basic. The sages have pointed out that in "the Revelation" the Divine Voice spoke in all tongues.

All of nature was wrapt in breathless silence when God addressed himself to Israel and gave Israel the Torah. The ancient teachers regard the day of Revelation equally as important as the day of Creation. For on that day of Torah-giving, there occurred the birth hour of the religion of the spirit. Hence, the Revelation was the most remarkable event in the history of humanity.

Many moderns do not believe in the dramatic story of Sinai as related in Scripture. They believe that the Sinaitic Code came not through a revelation from God but through experience. Man has lived and experienced and discovered through his record of experience a moral code which results in happiness. Israel, so moderns have professed, has shown a predisposition to moral leadership. Hence, from the spiritual genius of the Jew have emerged these great moral truths. Despite the plea of moderns that these Ten Commandments are man-made, hosts of us choose the affirmation found in the authority of God's revelation. Perhaps the very moral chaos of our day is to be traced to the fact that the rationalists and materialists have dethroned God as the motivation for "imitato dei" and life has become demoralized, mechanized, and despiritualized.

But why waste time in debating the origin of the Decalogue? The fact is that the Ten Commandments stand amidst the ebb and flow of the ages. If science has taught us anything it is the recognition of law in the universe; and even as there exists physical law so equally there operates a moral law in the world. Break the moral law and evil consequences do follow. The wages of sin is death. In the realm of ethics, "as a man soweth so he reapeth." Morality teaches us that we are all tied up and dependent upon each other. One need only examine the pages of history and he soon becomes convinced that evil always descends upon the unrighteous nations or individuals. There is "a power not ourselves that makes for righteousness."

To apprehend the Supreme Mind in the story of revelation we must come to know something of spiritual illumination. As a Jewish teacher I am ever thrilled by the everlasting covenant which God and Israel made at Sinai. Out of this covenant Israel has taken upon itself a mission as the spiritual lightbearer and keeper of the light for all mankind.

If only modern Jews would know the meaning of Israel's goal throughout history, then this burden of suffering that descends upon us in historical intervals would become easy. With the covenant at Sinai, everlasting life was planted in the soul of Israel. Israel thus has become an "Am Elom," an eternal people. Tyrants may come and attempt the destruction of the Jew but the Jew holding on to the Torah has managed to stand by the grave of his traducers.

Our great talmudic teachers tell the following charming story. When God gave the Torah on Sinai, at the moment there descended from the heavens "Sefer Vesayef," a book and a sword. These were bound one against the other in combat. And a Heavenly Voice was heard cry: "Choose one or the other! If you choose the 'Sefer', life will be yours; if you choose the sword, death will be yours." Israel chose the book, the Torah, the code of Sinai. Today in a war between mind and brute force, Israel remains the dramatic symbol of the spirit and the power of the spirit in the world.

instances just to remain alive." For its 1950 work the organization has estimated it will require $44,512,000, most of which must be furnished by the United Jewish Appeal in the United States.

JDC's major goals in 1950, include: Emigration help for 146,500 of whom 120,000 will go to Israel; and 26,500 to the United States and other lands; Reconstructive aid to help 55,000 breadwinners to self-support.

Welfare services, relief, child care, and medical aid for 350,000, including increased aid to Jews, particularly children in Moslem lands. Participation in a special welfare program in Israel through which 9,000 "hard core" DP's and dependents can emigrate to be cared for in rehabilitation institutions in the new state. This program is sponsored together with the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Government of Israel.

Dr. Schwartz says that JDC's original 1950 emigration plans did not take into account the newly arisen possibility of a full-scale emigration from Iraq. "The government of Iraq has declared that all Jews may leave for Israel, provided they are out of the country by February, 1951. If this expiration date becomes a reality, JDC may be called upon to rescue an additional 80,000 Jews and bring them to Israel during the current year." He warns that unless sufficient funds are forthcoming JDC will be unable to emigrate thousands of Jews, who may never have another opportunity to leave, and may be doomed to catastrophe.

In Europe, according to Dr. Schwartz, JDC still is faced with difficult problems: in France, where it aids 25,000; in Hungary where 60,000 receive its relief; and in the DP areas where 45,000 get help. Since 1914, it has expended $417,300,000 in emergency and constructive aid, and is the largest voluntary relief agency in the world. More than $272,000,000 of this amount has been utilized by the organization since V-E Day in its efforts to build a new life for the Jewish survivors of the Hitler era.
